AFFIDAVIT FOR MILLER

Walkerton Train Bandit Will Await His Arraignment in the Court—His Arraignment in Jail.

An affidavit charging Fred Miller, the Walkerton train bandit, with burglary and grand larceny, was filed in the circuit court before Special Judge Fred Woodward Monday morning, by Prosecutor Montgomery and Deputy Prosecutor Sam Schwartz.

Miller's bonds were fixed at $1,000, and Miller will await arraignment in jail. It is not probable that Miller will be arraigned in court until Judge Funk is back on the bench. The value of the goods Miller took from the car were placed at $35 in the affidavit. The man will probably plead guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

A DINNER BODICE.

the chiffon. The fichu, or bretelle, which are marked with large "O" perforations are arranged on a lengthwise thread of the material. If the fichu is made of flouncing, cut off edge of pattern on slot perforations and place pattern on flouncing with edge marked by slot perforations along scalloped edge. Either a round or square neck may be used and both outlines are clearly indicated in perforations, which have only to be followed.

To make the waist one will require:

2 1/2 yards of 44-inch chiffon at $1.50 yard $3.75
2 yards 27-inch satin for lining at $1 yard 2.00
1/2 yard 28-inch velvet at $2 yard 1.50
$7.25

Make the satin lining by taking up dart in the front, as perforated. Turn hem at notches, close seams as notched, then close center-back and shoulder seams. Fit the lining, then proceed with the chiffon overblouse.

Close the under-arm seam as notched, then close shoulder seam. Turn under edge of side front and side back on slot perforations, lap on front and back, notches and edges even, and stitch, leaving edges to left of center, front free for opening. Gather lower edge between double "TT" perforations. Center-back is indicated by single small "o" perforation at lower edge. Close seam as notched, leaving extensions free; turn under on slot perforations, lap to small "o" perforations. Sew in armhole as notched.

One of the details on this bodice that should attract the attention of the home dressmaker is the short sleeves. It is noted that the latest Paris fashions are eliminating the sleeve in every way possible on fancy bodices, therefore the novice who follows this idea will be sure to be in touch with the latest French styles.

This model is carried out in embroidered chiffon and handsome lace, the lace being arranged as a fichu. The belt is a handsome shade of cerise velvet, apparently twisted about the figure with studded negligette and finished with a bow.

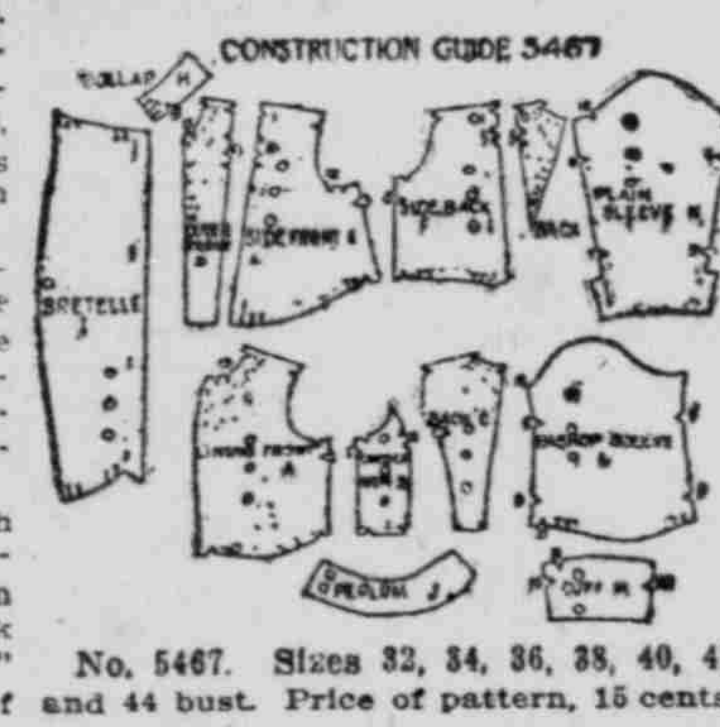

Before cutting out the chiffon, smooth it out carefully and see that the scissors are sharp to avoid pulling when cutting. Place the outer front, back and collar (all marked by triple "TTT" perforations) on a lengthwise fold of Coats that show the Contrasting Color Harmony so much talked about this Spring—Coats in the New Shades, Labrador Blue, Tea Green, Tango, Wild Duck Blue and Vanderbilt Blue.
